

Colin Cash is an enrolled member of the Mille Lacs Band of Ojibwe. Colin cares deeply for his tribe, meaning both fellow members of the Mille Lacs Band, and also those he shares his time and journey with. Colin has served as a motivational speaker, cheerleader, listener, resource broker, and connection maker for various community efforts and organizations, and is also the co-founder of the Sober Squad grassroots recovery movement. Apart from his activism, he is currently attending Central Lakes College for Business Management, and has also completed courses in Tribal Administration and Governance through the U of M, as well as many other learning, certification, and training programs. Always a student, Colin uses his ability to learn and take perspective to continue empowering his Tribe in every sense, while giving back to those who have helped in his personal recovery journey.

No autographs, no pictures, please.